PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Members:

It is with a sense of pride and humility that I again accept the office of President of our Society. I always find a joy in working with people such as those who have contributed their time and energy in making the Mid-West Tennessee Genealogical Society the success that it is. A special thanks is given to those people who have served for the last two years as officers and to those who have accepted these responsibilities for the following two years.

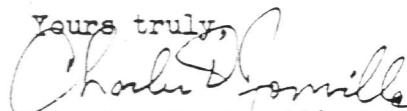

With our January issue of Family Findings we welcome our new Editor, Mrs. L. R. Mitchell. We pledge our support to Mrs. Mitchell and feel that under her leadership that our quarterly will continue to show improvement and additional help for all our Society members. Mrs. Charles E. Bruer has served as our Editor since 1975 and has done a tremendous job with Family Findings. We thank Mrs. Bruer for her contribution to our Society.

In the future we still have plans to publish an index to Family Findings for the years 1969 to 1976. This work is partially completed. We have for the last two years published our October quarterly with an index for the current year.

We are eager for suggestions that might help our members and readers with genealogical research. We encourage you to send your comments and suggestions to our Society. We welcome contributions of records for our Quarterly, especially those that are unpublished.

I thank you for your support in the last two years and hope for your support in the next two.

Yours truly,

Charles D. Fonville

CHRISTMAS IN JACKSON - 1865
(Madison County, Tennessee)

The following article was submitted to FAMILY FINDINGS by Mrs. Charles Keith, 240 Linden, Jackson, Tennessee 38301. The original story was written by Herman Hawkins, M. D., and was given to Mrs. Keith by a friend of descendants of Dr. Hawkins. Only a portion of the story follows.

Lee surrendered April 9, 1865, and the war between the States officially came to an end. The Confederate troops were rapidly paroled and allowed to return to their homes. Ragged, footsore, and weary, they straggled on through a desolate country, the fields overgrown with briars, fences burned, homes wrecked, empty and desolate. Hungry, with no place to sleep, they faced the future with courage and a song in their hearts, for they were going home.

My Father died in 1861. My Mother, Sister and I went to live with Grandfather HAWKINS, his wife, and an orphan grand-daughter about 12 or 13 years old they had taken to raise, named SALLIE REDDICK. My Father was in the drug business. When he died, my Grandfather took charge and continued to conduct the store situated on the corner of Main Street and Court Alley, JAMES and NELSON's old stand. His home was on Smith Street (now Deaderick Avenue) in a two-story house built on a 3 or 4 acre lot, running from Smith Street to McCowat Street.

My Mother suggested we have a Christmas tree at our house, especially for the soldier boys in the neighborhood who had returned from the Army. I can recall the names of most of those who were invited, but I am not sure I remember them all. The men were GEORGE FORTUNE, and two HOGSETT boys, BILL HUGHES, and the two GARDNER boys who lived just above us across the street on the corner. Of the ladies, there were three of the McCOWAT girls, Miss Margaret, Miss Kathleen, and Miss Emma, Miss KATE START, Miss MARIAH CREEVY, and Miss JENNIE ALEXANDER.

When we invited the guests, we suggested that each bring whatever they might want to exchange, label it and put it on the tree. It was surprising how many presents were brought. Walking canes, 3 or 4 bandana handkerchiefs, corncob pipes, watch charm baskets cut from peach seed, cravats made from treasured pieces of silk, lighters with fringed tops as we had no matches, home knitted socks and mittens, pictures in frames made of pasteboard with rosettes of Gum tree burrs tacked on them. Reticules made of wheat straw pressed flat with hot iron plaited together for sides with light flat board for bottom and cloth sewed on ends and plaited cord for handles - plaited mats of same with crocheted edges and other items I do not remember.

The GARDNER boys had just returned from a wagon trip to Paducah, Kentucky, and brought at request of my Mother for this tree a mysterious looking bundle. Grandfather called the names on the presents and handed them out. When he picked up this package, he handed it to me and said, "Son, this is for you from Mama, open it up." I untied the package and found a pair of red-topped metal-toed boots. I tell you the Pearly Gates opened wide for a little boy when I saw them.

HARMONY BAPTIST CHURCH MINUTE BOOK I

Abstracts from the first minute book of Harmony Baptist Church, Haywood County, Tennessee, were submitted to FAMILY FINDINGS by Mrs. Virgie Naylor Smith, 1716 Temple Avenue, Nashville, Tennessee 37215, and transcribed from xerox copies of the original book by Mary Ann (Mrs. L. R.) Mitchell. The original records of the church are in the hands of the present Church Clerk, Lewis Alvis Stuart, who entrusted them to Mrs. Smith to have microfilmed in the Tennessee State Archives. We are grateful to Mrs. Smith for it was through her efforts that the records are now available to genealogists; she is an excellent genealogical researcher and is in the process of publishing a book on the Kelso Family.

Harmony Baptist Church is located about three miles from the Stanton-Koko Exit off U. S. Interstate 40, on the Eureka Road, District #1, Haywood County, Tennessee, and was organized October 14, 1837. The Minutes of the meetings of that Church begin October 14, 1837 and continue through February, 1973, with a few years missing. There are nine (9) books of records. Book One also contains three lists of Members: the earliest one is not dated, but is evidently the first members of the Church (published in FAMILY FINDINGS Vol. III, No. 4, October 1971); the second list is dated "Revised as of 1861"; the third list of members is dated "Revised as of 1866".

THEY ARE READY FOR YOU

Fifty reels of the 1900 Census have been catalogued and are waiting for you in the Audio-Visual Room at the Jackson-Madison County Library. Since they arrived several weeks ago, from one to four genealogists have been searching diligently for their lost ancestor. That first census of 1790 only recorded the heads of the family, place of residence and other meager bits of information, but as the years passed more and more information was recorded by the census taker. These 1900 records record the number of years the person had been married, their citizenship, the number of living children the mother had, place of birth of the mother, of the head of the household, ownership of the home, occupation, and whether each person could read or write.

Don't be disappointed if you find the ink so faded that the records are often illegible and sometimes pages are completely illegible.

At present the library cannot secure the 1900 census of other states from U. S. depositories. These will probably be available later. This is something over which the local libraries have no control. - - E.I.W.

WEST TENNESSEE SOLDIERS' PENSION APPLICATIONS

The following list was taken from the Index to Tennessee Confederate Pension Applications, a publication of the Tennessee State Library and Archives, Nashville, Tennessee.

In 1891 the state of Tennessee enacted legislation which established a Board of Pension Examiners. This Board had the authority to decide if a Confederate veteran applying for pension was incapable of "making a support", and if his service was honorable. Both Federal and Confederate veterans who were bona fide residents of Tennessee for at least one year before making application were eligible for pension, provided they met the qualifications set forth by the Pension Act. Most pension applications and their supporting papers contain information of much interest and value to genealogists, and a photostatic copy may be obtained from the Tennessee State Archives for a specific cost.

The following list contains the name of the applicant, the pension application number, the county of residence at the time of application, and the unit in which the soldier served.

FELTS FAMILY LETTER (Continued)

The Jackson Son, Jackson, Tennessee, Nov. 27, 1926.

MRS. A. K. DOUGLAS DIES SUDDENLY - Funeral of Highly Admired Woman to be Held Tomorrow at Trinity Church

Mrs. A. K. Douglass beloved wife of A. K. Douglass of this city, passed away suddenly Saturday night at her home, 221 Belmont. Although Mrs. Douglass had been in bad health for some time, it was not felt by her family that her condition was serious and her passing away Saturday night at 11:58 came as a great shock to them and to her many friends. She had lived in Jackson for many years and took a very active part in the affairs of the Trinity Methodist church, of which she was a devoted member. She was especially well known and loved in her immediate neighborhood and her passing will bring much sorrow to her wide circle of friends.

Eighteen grandchildren also survive.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Trinity Methodist church by Rev. C. L. Smith of Huntingdon, assisted by Rev. B. J. Russell and Rev. J. M. Pickens and interment will follow in Hollywood cemetery. The following pall bearers are requested to meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock at the chapel in the Ewing Griffin funeral home:

BRICES CROSS ROADS NATIONAL CEMETERY

Brices Cross Roads National Cemetery, located at Baldwin, Prentiss County, Miss., contains many graves of Confederate soldiers, marked and unmarked. However, not all of the Confederate dead from that battle are buried there. There is a small grave yard $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of the Cross Roads and 500 feet to the right on a field road. The graves sit off to the left of the field road beyond a barbed wire fence. Walking south from the gate there are these stones:

R. E. DUKE, born in Weakly (sic) Co. Tenn. Dec. 7 1845, died June 10, 1864
 Aged 18 yrs, 7 mos, & 3 days
 A brave spirit is buried here, who died a glorious death in his country's cause.
 (Stone is lying flat on the ground, face up, and is cracked straight across.)

A small, unmarked stone (broken and weathered)

JOHN M. EXUM, Mem. of Co. G 21st Tenn. Cav. was killed in the battle of Tishomingo, Miss. June 10, 1864, Aged 31 yr's, 8 mo's, 1 d.
 (Original stone fell and broke; it was recently replaced by the Exum family with a new head and foot stone.)

JOHN W. TURNER, born Nov. 30, 1828, died June 10, 1864, Aged 31 yr's, 6 mo's & 10 d's
 (This tall stone is topped by a Masonic emblem; stone is down and cracked across the center.)

Another set of graves are located 65 feet south of these last ones among some cedars:

CATHARINE, wife of SINGLETON HUGHES, born July 7, 1800, died July 4, 1851
 (Stone is lying on the ground and is nearly covered by the growth of grass.)

SINGLETON HUGHES, Co. E, 2 Miss. Inf. C. S. A.
 (Stone is standing upright and looks much newer than the other stones.)

A small, unmarked stone (weathered and broken)

A few yards to the east of these graves lies an enclosure of wire with the following graves (reading N. to S.):

Foot stone J. D. G. (no sign of headstone)

LEE, son of W. D. & M. H. BRYSON, born Aug. 29, 18__, died Dec. 19, 1860
 (Stone broken in half, base is standing, this information followed by an illegible verse.)

M. H., wife of W. D. BRYSON, born Oct. 10, 1811, died July 21, 1879
 footstone M. H. B. (Design of dove appears on the stone)

SUAHA E. wife of LARKIN CAMPBELL, born June 4, 1812, died Oct. 15, 1898,
 Aged 86 yr's, 5 mo's, & 110 d's
 We shall meet again in a brighter climate, where the anguish of this world or ours is lost in deathless bliss.
 (Stone broken in half; design of hand pointing upward.)

LARKIN CAMPBELL, born June 18, 1809, died Oct. 9, 1870

Earth counts a mortal less, Heaven an angel more footstone L. C.

(Stone broken in three pieces; was a tall stone with design of hand similar to hand above.)

This listing was taken by Kitty Huddleston with Carl and Betty Smith on July 4, 1978.

#601 STRANGE

From 1828 to 1832, Henry Strange allegedly lived in Fayette Co., Tenn, having migrated from Chester Co., S.C. However, the 1830 Fayette Co. census lists only one Strange, Edmond L., as head of household. Henry and Edmond L. were sons of Edmond Strange, Sr. Was either the father of John D. Strange, who was born in South Carolina about 1811 and who was in Lafayette Co. Ark. after about 1846?
